The View from Hollister 112

Dennis Hanno
Dean of the Undergraduate School

This week on campus we celebrated the Fourth Annual Martin Luther King Jr. Legacy Day. The activities of this day, capped by a public address from Naomi Tutu, highlight and honor the extraordinary accomplishments of Dr. King. In 1955, Dr. King led the boycott in Montgomery which eventually led to the U.S. Supreme Court declaration that Alabama's segregation laws were unconstitutional. This event catapulted Dr. King on to the national scene, and until his death in 1968 he was the country's most visible and vocal civil rights leader. Honored in 1964 with the Nobel Peace Prize, his careful assessment of which resources would be effective and which would not was the key to his progress toward his goals. Perhaps his most important

The Olin Players take the Sorenson Stage again this weekend with their production of "The Importance of Being Earnest". Come out March 2nd and 3rd to see this play! Read more on page five.
An "Earnest" Review

LaShonda Cooks
Staff Writer

I must admit I was bit skeptical and took my seat in the balcony for the opening night of the Ohio Players production of "Being Earnest." Would the play be written in some esoteric form or would they have to be disguised before I could understand what was going on? The script was written in a way that I wasn't used to, and I was a bit confused at first. However, as the play began, I found myself thoroughly entertained.

The cast was excellent, with each actor bringing their own unique interpretation to their role. The dialogue was witty and engaging, and the production was well-acted. I was pleasantly surprised by the overall quality of the performance. The play was quite good, and I would definitely recommend it to anyone looking for a good laugh.

In fact, I think it's safe to say that the play was quite good. Written by Oscar Wilde in 1895, "Being Earnest" is a classic example of the English comedies of manners genre. Though the plot may seem a bit slow, the characters are introduced to the audience in a way that is completely unforgettable.